"SCHOOL DAYS"

By DWIG

Sermons Heard in Washington Yesterday

Teachers Prominent in Work of Building Republic But Every Art and Calling Has Helped, Says Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, at Foundry Methodist Church.

"Every art and every calling has had its place in the building of the republic," declared the Rev. Dr. Herbert F. Randolph, pastor of Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church last night. The subject was "The Builders of the Republic," the second of a series of illustrated Sunday night lectures on "A Better America for Better Americans."

"If we call the roll of the men who build the State," said Dr. Randolph, "we must mention the soldiers, the farmers, the physicians, the jurists, the teachers, poets and ministers who inspire and exalt the people. Every one of these workers is called by God to a great and noble task."

"In addition to these we must not forget the inventors and tool makers whose genius has enabled the race to make progress in the last century than in the 5,000 years previous."

"Then there are the chemists who are rapidly transforming the entire process of life, the miners who work underground in order to provide us and our machines with heat and energy, and the vast army of toilers who operate the industries."

School House Greatest Force.
"But pre-eminence among those who are building the future republic are the school teachers who inspire the ideals of the American leaders. The little red brick school house has been one of the greatest forces in the building of the nation. Nor must we omit mention of the prophets, who, like Horace Bushnell and Henry Ward Beecher, caught the vision of the love of God and became thereby the guides who have kept the torch burning to lead the people of the wilderness into the Promised Land."

"Over against all of these stand the enemies of society. One man with his bombs and infernal machines can destroy in a moment the work of years. There is nothing that has not suffered grievously at the hands of the men who are the foes of the State. But we believe that the God of our Father is always stronger than Satan and the right and truth are more powerful than wickedness and error. Every day the invisible conflict goes on. One by one the enemies of society fall by the way. Consider the uprightness and State. The end of that man is peace and victory and the victory of that city and State is a victory inevitable and eternal."

W. Va. "Bad Man" Hangs Self

Christian Leadership Japan's Supreme Need, Says Rev. Paul L. Gerhard, Returned from 20 Years' Work There, in Sermon at Grace Reformed Church.

"The supreme need of Japan today is Christian leadership," declared the Rev. Dr. Paul L. Gerhard in Grace Reformed Church. Dr. Gerhard has recently returned from more than twenty years' service at North Japan College.

"Japan has a fine educational system," Dr. Gerhard declared, "and there are eager and earnest students and teachers, but there is no religious teaching in her schools, of any grade. The need for Christianity is all the greater because the old religions of Japan have been so linked with the feudal system of the past. They are so tampered with by superstition that they are without power to help Japan today. The great industrial, social, political and religious changes which are coming so rapidly today present tremendous problems for whose solution Japan needs the highest type of Christian leadership."

"To supply this Christian leadership is the purpose of North Japan College and other Christian schools in Japan. Tohoku Gakuin, or North Japan College, Sendai, includes academic, college and theological courses and is the only Christian school for men and boys in North Japan."

Graduates Join the Church.
"Last year the school was able to accommodate only 25 per cent of the applicants for the academic course. Of the approximately 100 who enter, only about 25 know anything about Christianity, yet more than half of those who were graduated last year were already baptized and soon afterward joined the church."

"North Japan College is recognized as exercising a great influence upon Japanese thought. Government schools and large business firms prefer graduates of Christian schools, because of the high type of manhood they turn out. The present is a time of unusual energy. About a generation ago a unique opportunity confronted Christian forces in Japan. They were not strong enough to use the opportunity. Today a similar opportunity, on a much larger scale, confronts the Christian forces there. The co-operation of Christians in America is needed and will be welcomed. The need for Christian leadership is great in all non-Christian lands, but nowhere is it more urgent than in Japan."

Faith, Love and Hope Marks Evidencing the Truly Great Church, Says Rev. Dr. G. P. Humphreys at Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church.

"The true church is measured not in terms of money, nor numbers, nor influence—the true church is the people, not the building or material resources," said the Rev. Dr. G. P. Humphreys yesterday in his sermon "The Marks of a Great Church" at the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church.

"A truly great church has three marks evidencing that greatness," declared Dr. Humphreys. "Faith that is not passive, but more assertive; love that is not mere sentimentality, but a love that has opened a heart as well as a mind and received of God's grace and translated it into the experience of life. So that the life is established by a sight of God in Christ through the spirit. For only in such a vision are hidden the possibilities of growth in His image and likeness. Only thus are we capacitated for mastery of self and dominion in the world; for here alone comes that aspiration which opens to man the kingdom of heaven."

Faith Fits for Mastery.
Love! Only faith can give birth to love. The passion of the Cross was born out of the compassion of the Christ. He saw the race as "sheep without a shepherd." While faith establishes your life, love must be the power to soften your living. Faith fits for mastery, but love fits for ministry. Faith grounds in a confidence unshakable, while love gives to overflowing out of that confidence that banks on the riches in Christ Jesus.

And hope. Ah! This is the secret of patient endurance. Faith conquers the ideal; love glorifies it, but hope nerves us to "carry on" to wards that goal. Hope gives expansion to the life grounded in faith and sweetened with love. Without faith we are lost in a maze of life, without love we are lost in a maze of life, without hope we are lost in a maze of life.

"Faith, love, hope! These, and these alone are the marks of a truly great church, such as Jesus had in vision when He said: 'I will build my church, and the gates of hell cannot prevail against it.'"

COAL SHORTAGE LAID TO ROADS

Production Would be Banner if Transportation Were Available.

Decrease in coal production, both anthracite and bituminous, reported by the United States Geological Survey in its figures for the United States can be traced directly to transportation difficulties. Analysis of the situation prepared by the survey shows the causes behind the lack of full time output this year are directly contrary to those of the years 1918 and 1919 and that if the coal supply were increased there is no apparent reason why production this year should not exceed that of any year in the history of coal production.

In the period from May 22 to June 12 the mines in the United States were producing only 51 per cent of the maximum output and four-fifths of this trouble, in every instance, was due to the transportation difficulties. Labor shortages, strikes, mine disability and no market were responsible for only a fractional part of the variance from maximum production.

In the same period of the two previous years the situation was just reversed and the principal setback, to production then was the lack of market, which was responsible for two-thirds of the waste time of the mines.

The very precarious coal situation in New England was shown in special figures issued by the Geological Survey last week. Public utilities have stocks of coal on hand sufficient to last them for only a fraction over five days and the retail dealer in those States have only a little less than two days' supply of fuel on hand for all of their customers. Embargo orders and other efforts made by the government are expected to relieve this situation this week, more especially in view of the return of some of the outwork railroad strikers to their work.

Alexandria.

THE HERALD BUREAU, A. S. Doniphan, 227 King Street.

Alexandria, Va., June 27.—The Rev. W. F. Watson, D.D., formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church in this city, who resides here, but who retired several years ago from a regular charge, today, while preaching at a Baptist church at Middleburg, Loudoun County, Va., was stricken with paralysis.

A telegram announcing his condition was received by his son, John Watson, who left this afternoon to visit with his father. His daughter, Miss Katherine Watson, who resides in Loudoun County, also was summoned.

Dr. Watson several years ago suffered a slight stroke, and was compelled to relinquish a regular charge in the Baptist ministry. Recently he had made his home with his son in this city.

Two negro robbers shortly after 9 o'clock last night went to the residence of Henry Johnson, colored, living near the "Watering Trough," south of Alexandria, Fairfax County, and held him up on his door held him up. Falling to get anything they shot him.

Six-Year-Old Finds Daddy "Sick" On Condensed Milk; Officers Say Cans Filled With Booze

(Public Ledger Service.)

Philadelphia, June 27.—"Muvver, daddy's drank all my condensed milk and he's sick," exclaimed a six-year-old girl to her parent, the wife of a striking stevedore and mother of five children, residing in South Philadelphia.

The mother made an investigation and starting were the discoveries. Alongside a couch, where the father lay in a drunken stupor, were several empty condensed milk cans. He explained that the whisky was sold him in a condensed milk can of a well known brand in a drug store in South Philadelphia.

The husband, when interrogated later, explained that when his whisky supply became exhausted, he sought elsewhere for his stimulant. He explained that the whisky was sold him in a condensed milk can of a well known brand in a drug store in South Philadelphia.

N. Y. IS FACING ERA OF NIGHT

Only Enough Coal on Hand To Last Metropolis One Week.

NO SHIPMENTS COMING

End of Supply Means Crippling of Industry and Wave of Crime.

New York, June 27.—New York City has but one week's supply of coal on hand. A darkened city with its incidental increase in robbery and crimes and violence; a city with all of its industries crippled; a gasless city with thousands of its inhabitants unable to cook their food, and an elevatorless city with most of the buildings unable to operate their lifts, with great loss to business, are but a few of the dire calamities predicted today by a prominent official of the public service committee, unless action is taken to alleviate the scarcity.

One of the worse situations that has confronted this city in a long time has been brought about by pyramiding the price of coal by profiteering middle men.

Railroads Unreliable.

"The railroads and the utilities corporations are co-operating to the best of their ability, but they are very certain of having no more than twenty-four hours' advance supply. Buffalo, Detroit, Akron and many other cities in the United States are feeling the pinch as badly as we in New York," he said. "The only country is trying to manage on a hand-to-mouth existence where coal is concerned."

"This is one instance where the mine workers are absolutely not to blame. It's a holdup without a gun on the part of certain persons who are making exorbitant profits selling soft coal for $16 a ton, which should bring $8 or $9 or perhaps $10 at the very most. They are in a position to matter of coal being hoarded in flat cars in the railroads of New Jersey. These cars are being unloaded as fast as possible and the congestion is not a natural condition."

Need 600 Cars Daily; Get None.

"There are on hand 171,000 tons of bituminous coal, the sort used in public utilities, when there should be 353,000 tons. This city should be receiving 600 cars daily from New York. The coal is in cars, but it is not being delivered. The mine operators and owners say the railroads don't send cars to the mines; the railroad officials claim they haven't the cars and can't afford to buy more. Yes, it's the good old 'passing the buck' game once more."

"In justice to the railroads, let me say the car movements have been very normal. The last twenty-four days; where we formerly had 5,000 cars coming in and going out daily we now have 1,000. But despite the improvement in the coal situation, it is as critical a predicament as ever."

Would Reduce Traffic.

"Great pressure has been brought to bear to persuade us to permit car lines to reduce their traffic; eight-car trains instead of ten have been requested. The various utilities corporations are co-operating handsomely and have relieved the shortage as far as possible."

There is but one remedy. The government should take over the coal administration, as was done in the last crisis, who shall decide what a reasonable profit on coal is; what amount of coal shall be allotted to the various industries; and who shall have the right to commandeer coal being used in nonessential industries. Should the administration in Washington appoint a national administrator of coal I am certain many States would follow the example."
